

The Caswell Messenger (8-3-1994)

Sugar Creek Pet Grooming

A pet is much more than just an animal – they are a member of the family. And just like a member of the family you want them to look their best.

Pet owners no longer have to travel out of the county to get their pets groomed. Just a short drive to Prospect Hill can get your pet professionally groomed.

Ann Crabtree attended Nanhall Grooming School in Greensboro for her training. She said she loves animals and had always wanted to choose a profession she could do close to home. “I realized there wasn’t a pet groomer in the county so I decided to take the plunge and this is something my daughter can go into,” said Crabtree.

Crabtree grooms cats and dogs, large or small. She specializes in cocker spaniels and poodles. She uses no medication to sedate the pets and she does a scissors cut only.

Crabtree’s grooming fee starts at $25. For more information call 910-562-3110.

Frogsboro News

By Philip Wade

The Adult Choir provided special music in the morning worship service at Old Lea Bethel Baptist Church last Sunday. They sung, “God on the Mountain.”

Rev. Carver’s morning message was taken from Job Chapter 31, verses 1-6 entitled, “How much to you weigh on God’s scales?”

A new business opened recently in Prospect Hill. Ann Crabtree of Carver Road has opened a pet grooming service. She cuts, shampoos and attends to your pets nails. Be sure to see her if you need her services.

David Murphy of Elon College were among the visitors in our home last week.

During the last week, the area has had a lot of rain. The ground is really wet. I suspect some tobacco was drowned and will have to be harvested when the weather turns back hot again.

Speaking of tobacco, market prices on opening day on the Middle Belt was off from what they were opening day last year. With the farming situation the way it is, it’s hard to predict how the season will go.

A family cookout was held Sunday, July 24 at the home of Howard and Ann Crabtree of Prospect Hill. Attending were Art and Lisa Griffin and children, Page and Javin, of St. Angelo, Texas. Brothers and sisters of Howard's also attended, enjoying hot dogs and hamburgers cooked on the grill. The occasion was honoring the Griffin's being home during the summer.